Murray Told To Stay on City Job, Else Quit

Confers With The Mayor—Probe Checks To Reily

KANSAS CITY, June 18.—Mayor Bryce B. Smith told Matt S. Murray, city public works director and also in charge of the state WPA activities, to give full time to his city job "or get out" today as a hearing was resumed into a pay roll pad in Murray's street cleaning department.

Murray draws an $8,000 annual salary from the city and receives $6,000 yearly from his WPA duties. Murray was summoned to appear at today's payroll hearing by City Manager Eugene C. Zachmann but failed to appear.

Ready To Ask Resignation
Meanwhile, the Star in a specialty dispatch from Washington, said the Roosevelt Administration was ready to ask the resignation of Murray from the WPA post "to save embarrassment to all concerned."

The paper said appointment of a new WPA director for Missouri could be expected "any day now." Murray and Smith conferred briefly before noon then recessed their conference until later today since both had other noon-hour engagements.

"I've told Murray he's got to give up one job—and I don't care much which one he resigns," Smith told newsmen earlier.

At the hearing City Detective Frank H. Rogers testified that since December 1933 he had "kicked back" $30 of each month's salary to E. Mont Reily, former governor of Puerto Rico, now a loan broker. Rogers was Reily's bodyguard while in Puerto Rico.

Mrs. Rogers testified Reily told her that the money "would help T. J." and when he pressed for the identity of T. J. she was told it was T. J. Pendergast, erstwhile political boss now in federal prison for income tax evasion.

She also said that when she complained of receiving letters at the Rogers home for persons not living there, Reily told her it "meant Frank's job." The letters were identified last Saturday as

Tax Relief By More Economy

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Chairman Cooper (D-Tenn.) of the house tax committee suggested to congress today that "the best way to accomplish tax relief is to more closely watch appropriations."

Cooper opened house debate on a tax revision bill designed to remove so-called tax deterrents and expected to be passed by nightfall.

Before beginning a detailed explanation of the measure, which "would repeal the undistributed profits tax, Cooper asserted that slowing down on appropriations was a route to helping taxpayers.

Some members of the ways and means committee, of which the tax committee is a sub-group, served notice of their intention to try to make certain provisions retroactive.

Hurrying to dispose of important financial legislation before July 1, the house today took up business tax revision while administration forces in the senate sought a two-year extension of the President's monetary powers.

Little real opposition to the tax bill was in sight, although Republican members of the house ways and means committee contended it does not go far enough in stimulating business. Passage was expected by nightfall.

A more strenuous fight was in prospect over the monetary legislation, which would continue the President's authority to devalue the dollar and extend the treasury's power to maintain the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and to buy domestically-mined silver at prices above the world markets.

The tax bill, offered in response to business men's demands for changes in corporation levies, would wipe out the tax on undistributed corporate profits and substitute a flat 18 per cent levy on companies earning more than $25,000 a year. The present rates of 12 1/2 to 16 per cent on corporations with income under $25,000 would be continued.

The bill also would extend $544,000,000 in excise or "nuisance" taxes and would continue the three cent postage rate of out-of-town letters for two years. Both will expire June 30 unless re-enacted in the meantime.

Improvements of $80,000 at Missouri Fair

Increase Made In Premiums For 1939 Exposition

Estimating that $80,000 in renovations on Missouri's fairgrounds here had been completed since the summer of last year, Charles W. Green, secretary, this week announced a proposed increase of more than 10 per cent for awards and premiums for 1939 and, with his staff, settled down for three intensive months of preparation for the 39th annual Missouri State Fair, Aug. 19-26.

Among improvements on the million-and-a-half dollar plant at Sedalia, Green listed the newly-completed Floriculture Building and a new four-lane entranceway to the 236-acre grounds. Much of this work of renovation and expansion has been done under a $95,000 Works Progress Administration program underway since April 1938.

Definite announcement of the increase in premium money, Mr. Green said, will be officially made with the appearance of the State Fair Premium Book, shortly to be off the press.

Auto races, previously a major attraction on the opening Sunday and closing Saturday, will be held this year on consecutive days, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 19 and 20. Children's Day, formerly held on the opening Saturday, with all children under 12 admitted free, has been moved to Monday. Five afternoons of harness-horse racing with $7,100 and added money are scheduled, with the Western Breeders' Futurity being raced for the first time as a regular part of the Sedalia exposition's annual program and under an arrangement which will make it a permanent feature of the Missouri State Fair. The State Fair Horse Show will occupy the Coliseum for six nights and will feature the Fifth National Saddle Horse Futurity.

Sunday, Aug. 20 has been designated as American Legion Day. Governor's Day has been set for Wednesday, Aug. 23.

With good weather, last year's attendance, which topped a quarter of a million, is expected to be decidedly exceeded this August. Green, now serving his seventh year as secretary-manager of the fair, declared.

Five Billion Elusive Pennies Been Misplaced

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(P)—Speaking of losing things, mint officials estimated today Americans have misplaced 5,000,000,000 pennies since the government started making them.

Comes summer every year and the loss mounts higher, for this is the time children are out of school and on the loose—spraying pennies behind them. Copper cent pieces are definitely the money of children.

Of the unaccounted-for five billion, officials guess that more than half have been dropped down drains and gutters or lost in the streets by youngsters.

Millions, of course, are in children's banks and a lot more in vending machines.

The government can keep track of most of its money, but pennies always have been elusive.

Effort To End Tense Blockade At Tientsin

British Prime Minister Hopes For Settlement

By The Associated Press
Prime Minister Chamberlain told the British House of Commons today the British and Japanese governments were conferring both in London and Tokyo in an effort to settle the tense blockade incident between the two nations at Tientsin, China.

Chamberlain said it was still hoped a local settlement would be possible, although he said the incident had "been confused by the introduction of larger issues of general policy."

He said the British government believed the Japanese government "share their own desire not to widen the area of disagreement or to render more acute an already difficult situation."

Removal of British women and children from the Japanese-blockaded British and French concessions at Tientsin was considered by British authorities today as the siege neared the end of its sixth day.

With a shortage of foodstuffs and milk already felt, a new menace appeared in the concessions in the possibility of a water shortage. The concessions yesterday used 230,000 of their 280,000-gallon capacity.

If the British should decide to send out their women and children they probably would sail aboard a passenger ship Wednesday for Chinwangtao and Peitaiho, a beach resort.

With neither the Japanese nor the British showing signs of weakening, Prime Minister Chamberlain was expected to tell the House of Commons this afternoon how Britain would meet Japan's challenge to British interests in the far east.

Crisis In Demands

The crisis centered originally in Japanese demands against the British in a dispute over four alleged anti-Japanese terrorists in the British concession, but which involved in its ramifications the entire issue of the rights of Western nations in China.

Army authorities in Tokyo said that electrified fences would be erected around the blockaded British and French concessions tonight.

Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, arrived at Tientsin from Peiping on a routine visit scheduled before the British-Japanese crisis developed. He experienced no difficulty at the barricaded entrance to the British concession.

Britain's trouble in another part of the world, the strife-torn holy land, was brought into relief again with the killing of 18 Arabs by a dawn explosion in a crowded market place in the port of Haifa. Half of the casualties were women and children. Troops and police throughout the Haifa district of Palestine were put on the alert.

The German press described as a "plebiscite" pro-german demonstrations conducted by residents of the Free City of Danzig after Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels had told them they would "return to the Reich."

Two Bills Go To Governor

JEFFERSON CITY, June 19.—Ninety of the 150 house members returned to the capitol today after their second recess of the session and sent two bills to Gov. Lloyd C. Stark in a brief morning meeting.

One was the highway appropriations measure—the fourth funding bill to reach the executive desk. Eight remain to be acted on by one or both branches.

The bill carries $45,000,000 for construction and maintenance of roads and bridges in 1939-40, a $150,000 emergency revolving fund, and $1,885,000 for the administrative expenses of the department.

This $47,035,000 total must come from the state's road funds—proceeds of the 2-cent gas tax and annual license plate fees. Also included in the bill was $20,000,000 from federal funds. This is a maximum figure designed to permit the state to take advantage of every possible grant.

The lower body concurred in a senate amendment limiting the highway department to purchase of motor cars valued at not more than $900.

The other measure approved will permit the state to receive from the federal government 25 per cent of the proceeds from national forest reserves in Missouri and from the federal flood control district in Southeast Missouri.

The money would be distributed 75 per cent to schools and 25 per cent to roads in counties in which the forest reserve and flood control districts are situated. The bill was sponsored by Rep John Jack (D), Salem.

James Wright Holdup Suspect

Admission To One 'Stickup' Made To The Officers

James "Chow" Wright, was arrested early Sunday morning by the police in connection with the holdup of Lawrence Lueck near the Missouri State Fair grounds Saturday night. Lueck was held up and robbed of between $35 and $40 by a bandit who appeared alongside his car with a handkerchief covering his face.

Wright had been under suspicion by the police for more than a week, after he had been approached on the fair grounds and questioned for a few minutes. At that time he was released by John Whiteman, night watchman on the grounds.

Following the Saturday night holdup, a description furnished to police tallied with that of Wright and it was decided to await until early morning before arresting him giving him a chance to return to his home.

Officers Finnell and Nelson went to the home and got him out of his bed and took him to police headquarters where he was questioned. He admitted according to the officers to one "stickup" but denied he had anything to do with the others. He also claimed he was hit in the head a short time after he held up Lueck and most of the money he declared was taken from him.

Charges of grand larceny are to be filed against him this afternoon by Prosecuting Attorney Frank W. Hayes, to whom Wright confessed early Sunday, as well as making his statement before Chief of Police John J. O'Brien and Officer Lawrence N. Englund.

In the past two weeks several motorists have been held up while parked on the State Fair boulevard and on the old highway 65 road which passes the Missouri-Kansas-Texas yards.

Wright in his statement to the officers said he did not have a gun but put a rock in his coat to make it appear he had a gun. He is held in the county jail pending the hearing.

Propose Assembly End Saturday

JEFFERSON CITY, June 19.—(P)—The house adopted with a loud roar today a resolution calling for sine die adjournment of the sixtieth general assembly Saturday at noon.

The resolution was sent to the senate where it may be acted on later today.

"There's no reason at all why we can't get through this week," said Speaker Pro Tem Ed R. Caldwell (D), Ralls County. "We have conferred with senate leaders and they are in accord with this resolution."

Showers which fell early today left a rainfall of .84 of an inch and caused a delay in the belated wheat cutting. However the rain will prove beneficial to other crops.

It is not believed the rain will injure the wheat or oats which have not been cut.

Call For Wagner Act Revision

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(P)—The National Association of Manufacturers called for revision of the Wagner Act today to remove much of the labor board's administrative discretion.

John C. Gall, the association's counsel, told a senate labor subcommittee considering amendments that the board had "perverted" the law and said the matter "should be specifically dealt with by congress, particularly as the board has clearly shown by its testimony that it has no intention of modifying anything except minor procedural requirements."

The association, which Gall said represented 7,500 manufacturers employing several million workers, recommended amendments to:

Protect employees "against unfair labor practices, whether practiced by employers, labor organizations or fellow employees" with "reasonable limitations upon the right to strike."

Prohibit the closed shop and the check-off.

Safeguard "freedom of speech" by clear and appropriate language.

Give employers the right to petition for elections to determine collective bargaining representatives.

Provide a statute of limitations on complaints of unfair labor practices.

Require unions to file for public inspection "reasonable information with respect to themselves and their responsibility."

Talk of Special Assembly Meet

Senate Stymied On Bus and Truck Revenues

JEFFERSON CITY, June 19.—Missouri's longest legislative session moved into the final windup stage this week but only a few of the tiring lawmakers were hopeful of getting away within 10 days.

The house was on hand after its second recess because of lack of work and still had practically nothing before it due to the deliberative senate's failure to accomplish anything since passage of the Kansas City police bill last week.

The upper chamber remained stymied over bus and truck revenues and supporters of a bill Gov. Lloyd C. Stark urged to bring in needed funds for the state highway department expected to spend at least two more days on it.

So the house members probably won't have cause for serious deliberations before mid-week.

Talk of special session later in the year has increased considerably within the past few days because of the urge to adjourn.

Many observers doubt if all important matters still pending will be acted upon.

Governor Stark has hinted he would call an extra session unless the assembly found some way to provide more money for direct relief. He also recently recommended passage of a bill to place the blind pension program under the social security commission so the state could obtain federal aid.

No action designed to solve these two problems has been taken thus far. If they are disregarded it might be possible for the solons to make their general exodus by week's end, but a special session undoubtedly would be the result, observers say.

Nine Killed By A Tornado and Over 60 Hurt

Sections of Seven Towns Damaged In Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, June 19.—A tornado that howled across 25 miles of the countryside near here Sunday afternoon killed nine persons, injured upwards of 60, and wrecked an estimated $500,000 worth of property.

The death list, at first placed at 10, was reduced today when Walter Israel, 28, of Anoka, Minn., returned to his home. He said he had been unable to reach the town through the storm, and officials had listed him among the dead when he could not be found.

The national guard, meanwhile, set up a refugee encampment to provide food and shelter for those whose homes were wiped out by the storm, and guardsmen and volunteers poked about in the wreckage, seeking possible undiscovered victims.

Sections of seven towns—Corcoran, Maple Grove, Champlin, Anoka, Cedar, St. Francis and Bethel—lying from 15 to 30 miles west and northwest of here were damaged with Anoka, a town of some 5,000, suffering most seriously. There 40 to 50 buildings were demolished and five persons killed.

The dead included a family of four whose automobile ran headlong into the wind near Corcoran.

The dead:
Mrs. Anna Freeman, 76, Minneapolis.
Ellen Freeman, 43, Minneapolis.
James Bradley, 37, Minneapolis.
Mrs. James Bradley, 34, Minneapolis.

H. G. Groat, 73, Anoka.
Leo Kidd, 25, Anoka.
Ernest Syring, about 50, Anoka.
Edward Morrisette, Anoka.
Fred Zimmerman, 75, Champlin.

The automobile in which Mrs. Freeman, her daughter, Ellen, and the Bradleys, her son-in-law and daughter, were riding was whirled several hundred feet and demolished. Bodies of the occupants were scattered in a field. All the others were killed in the collapse of homes except Zimmerman. He was working in his garden when the tornado lifted him up, carried him several hundred feet and dashed him to death against a bridge.

The Ford coupe in which was riding Mrs. Miller and their three children overturned, and was practically demolished, while the Colvin car's front was smashed in and badly damaged.

With Mr. Colvin were his wife, Mrs. Betty Baker, of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Freeman of Lexington. Mrs. Baker received fractures of both arms, and bruises; Mr. Freeman received several broken ribs, and possible internal injuries; Mrs. Freeman received a laceration on one knee and bruises; Mrs. Colvin received a laceration on her mouth and several teeth were knocked out; Mr. Colvin received a fractured collar bone.

Mrs. Miller was badly shaken up and received numerous bruises; her husband, was bruised and on one received a severe head injury. The other two children were not injured.

Took Injured To Hospital
Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Acker of Green Ridge who arrived on the scene of the accident a few seconds after it occurred, rushed several of the injured to the Jordan hospital at Windsor and the Turner ambulance from Windsor took several of the injured to Windsor.

Mrs. Baker was later removed to Kansas City, while the others are at the hospital in Windsor for further observation.

Mr. Colvin and party had been at Warsaw, Mo., visiting with Mr. Freeman's mother, Mrs. J. W. Freeman, and were en route to their home. Mr. Freeman is also a brother of Mrs. T. J. Close of Green Ridge.

Several Hurt As Cars Collide Near Windsor

Accident At A Junction Sunday Afternoon

Several persons were injured Sunday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock at the junction of Highway 52 and Farm-to-Market road 127, five miles east of Windsor, when a model T Ford coupe driven by Forrest Miller, of eight miles south of Green Ridge, and a 1939 Oldsmobile sedan driven by Earl Colvin, of Lexington, Mo., collided head-on.

According to information on the accident, Mr. Miller was driving east following another automobile, and Mr. Colvin was headed west on Highway 52. The car ahead of Mr. Miller stopped to make a turn and Mr. Miller, it was said turned out to go around him, just as the Colvin car appeared.

The Ford coupe in which was riding Mrs. Miller and their three children overturned, and was practically demolished, while the Colvin car's front was smashed in and badly damaged.

With Mr. Colvin were his wife, Mrs. Betty Baker, of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Freeman of Lexington. The new sentence will run consecutively with an eight-year term assessed at the time of his recent conviction by a jury. Judge Otis also fined Donnici $9,000 today bringing to $16,000 the amount he owes the federal government.

Charles Crapisi, Donnici's lieutenant, was sentenced to five years in prison and fined $3,000 by Judge Otis. Crapisi pleaded guilty to six charges in two indictments previous to Donnici's first trial but sentencing was delayed.

Three indictments still are pending against Crapisi.

Arbitration—the Poor Man's Friend

Once there was a small-time produce merchant who bought $50 worth of fruit of specified grade from a wholesaler. When the fruit arrived, the merchant refused to accept or pay for it because it did not come up to specifications.

So the wholesaler hired a lawyer and sued for payment. It was six months before the case came up on a crowded court docket. By the time the trial ended, both litigants had lost money after paying lawyer fees, witness fees, and court costs. And the fruit had long since spoiled.

How many times has that story, with variations, been told in the history of American jurisprudence? The fact of the matter is that "going to court" is a luxury which few can afford in the United States. More and more the saying is heard: "The law is made for the lawyers."

Bpt there is a remedy—arbitration.

Arbitration is sponsored chiefly by the American Arbitration Association, formed by far-sighted business leaders who were willing to give their time and experience to the task of cutting through the oceans of red tape which had made "justice" a jest to the man without means.

Here, it would appear, is the answer to a man's prayer for immediate legal relief. Before impartial arbiters—not lawyers but experts in the matters involved in the case—a man may explain his grievance and expect a fair and unbiased decision.

For a fee of only 5 per cent of the amount involved, litigants may come before one or several arbiters and adjust claims ranging anywhere from a few dollars to millions. The association is entirely non-profit-making, and its nominal fee for expenses compares with conservative estimates that the average court suit costs the litigant as high as 40 per cent of the amount involved.

There is no formal trial. Each litigant state his side of the case, bringing witnesses if desired. The arbiters listen, unimpeded by legal technicalities, and arrive at decisions on a common sense basis. There is no delay, no drawn-out court proceedings, very little squawking at the rulings.

Forty-six of the 48 states now have given legal status to arbitration. Many industries, particularly those in which there are many disputes involving small amounts, are writing arbitration clauses into all contracts.

Approximately 7000 business and professional men have volunteered their services to act as arbiters without pay. Their decisions are binding.

Leaders of the movement are heartened by the public response. Arbitration looks like a great thing, except, perhaps for the lawyers.

Advice to Fathers

When young boys are brought before juvenile courts on various delinquency charges, the judge usually gives them a stern lecture on their waywardness and points out where they will end up if they continue along the same path.

Recently 40 such youths stood before Judge Frank Bicek in Chicago juvenile court. Some of them were repeaters and all must have expected the usual warning. Instead, Judge Bicek called in their fathers.

"I find that one of the outstanding causes of juvenile crime is parental neglect," said Judge Bicek, himself a father. "By that I mean a failure to recognize that children have problems as well as parents. These problems must be solved and it is our job as fathers to see to it that these immature minds have help and sympathetic understanding in solving them."

"The job of rearing children is not a part-time job. If done right, it is the most important business in the world. It pays the greatest dividends. Let me advise you. Get to know your boy. Live his everyday life with him. Love him and let him know it. Respect his ideas but try to guide him. That is the way, the only way to be a father."

The men shifted their feet, surprised and dismayed at the strange departure from court procedure. It had been many years since any had received a lecture. But every father in the land knows that each of those 40 fathers went home that night vowing to follow Judge Bicek's advice.

Embassy to Business

Since his appointment as Secretary of Commerce, Harry Hopkins has been putting forth considerable effort to win the confidence of business men. His degree of success has not been sensational, but nevertheless he deserves credit for trying in these times when cooperation between government and business would do plenty of good for each one of us.

Now Secretary Hopkins proposes to establish an "embassy to business" in his department. The Senate has approved the plan and the House probably will follow suit. This would set up a "highly qualified staff to assist business and to appraise the larger problems that affect the commerce and industry of the country."

No administrative functions would this embassy have, but it would be free to contact industries to promote increased business activity. It would not be another government agency to police the activities of capital.

This agency, if finally authorized, probably would not attack our fundamental economic problems at their roots. But if it could do just a little bit to bring some measure of harmony between the government and business, it would receive the sincere and well deserved thanks of millions of average Americans.

War Fears Less Evident

Certainly present conditions in Europe cannot be described as tranquil. But many think that the possibility of war in the near future has materially lessened.

A report that Hitler plans to make a definite offer of peace to France, Britain and the U. S. in return for sweeping territorial concessions, has gained credence in high quarters here and abroad. And recent news from London indicates that the Chamberlain government may be seeking pacific ways and means of providing Hitler with the "living space" he asks for.

The enigma of Russia grows more complex. The refusal of the Soviet to join with France and England in a mutual security pact, unless the latter countries would accept Russia's stringent terms to the letter, came with a shock to the European democracies, which had looked to the early completion of an entente. But Moscow still turns a willing, if skeptical ear, to London and Paris, and the hope of alliance remains strong.

In this country, sentiment in favor of isolation seems to have grown, now that the first emotion of horror at Hitler's aggressions has abated. And there is a fair chance that Congress will eventually enact neutrality legislation with teeth in it.

So They Say

America may not be the last hope of democracy in the world, but is certainly the firmest and most promising.—Secretary of Interior Ickes.

If you love me, you will not think about me as a potential or any other kind of presidential candidate.—Vice President Garner in reported conversation with Edgar Howard, Nebraska publisher and former congressman.

The sooner we stop treating relief as a purely temporary, makeshift arrangement and appreciate the fact that it is here to stay, the sooner will better and more equitable methods be evolved.—Gov. William H. Vanderbilt of Rhode Island.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—It is not supposed to be known, but Paul V. McNutt, who returns to the United States this week, already has submitted his resignation as High Commissioner of the Philippines. Already, also a successor virtually has been selected to fill his place.

He is Francis B. Sayre, son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson and Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Hull's trade treaties. Francis is a fine professional type, lectures to congressional committees as if he were still in a Harvard classroom, long wore a fraternity pin on his pajamas when he went to bed. He served seven years as adviser to the Siamese Government.

Sayre has been pulling all sorts of wires for the Philippine job, also has the support of the Brain Trust boys who dine at his house, but is opposed by the politicians who think of the Philippine Commission as one of the major appointments in the Government.

Moreover, a High Commissioner to the Philippines must look and act the part. Whatever you may think of McNutt politically, he looked and acted like a High Commissioner. Scholarly Sayre does not.

U. S. Chamber of Commerce moguls aren't advertising the fact that a hot internal row has developed over those caustic anti-New Deal resolutions passed at their recent annual convention.

Leading dissenters are Henry I. Harriman, New England utility magnate and twice president of the Chamber; Julius Barnes of Duluth, also a two-term president; and Harry A. Wheeler, Chicago banker and first president of the Chamber.

Basis of their attack is that the resolutions were adopted in violation of the by-law which requires all matters enacted at annual conventions first must be submitted to the entire membership.

This constitutional procedure was completely flouted at the May meeting. The twenty razor-edged blasts at the Administration were written by a handful of insiders on the last day of the convention and jammed through in half an hour, with only 150 of the 1,600 delegates present in the hall at the time.

The Harriman-Barnes-Wheeler group has demanded of William G. Carey, Jr., new Chamber president, that steps be taken without delay to prevent a repetition of these tactics. Carey has been told that unless there is remedial action the issue will be taken openly to the rank-and-file.

Harriman particularly has been critical of the resolutions. He told a group of prominent New York business men, including several members of the Chamber's ruling faction: "Those resolutions have lost the Chamber a great deal of standing in the esteem of the American public. They were very unwise."

When the President returned from hot-dogging with royalty, he looked at his desk, frowned at the "stacks of work" confronting him. Topping one stack was the magazine, "Stamp News."

Woodrum's Antarctic

There is no more zealous foe of spending on Capitol Hill than Representative Clifton A. Woodrum. As chairman of the Deficiency Appropriation subcommittee he has axed relief, farm, youth, housing and every other appropriation he has been able to get his hands on.

But where his personal interests are concerned, the bulky, bespectacled Virginian is quite ready to spend public money.

Two days after he had hacked $42,000,000 off the student-aid budget of the National Youth Administration, Woodrum undertook to push through his committee his bill to give Rear Admiral Richard Byrd, close friend and fellow-Virginian, $340,000 for another Antarctic expedition. This glaring inconsistency was promptly challenged by Oklahoma's hefty Representative Jed Johnson.

"Now, just a minute," he demanded. "Before we engage in skyrocketing let's get this thing straight. This is an Interior Department appropriation and I'd like to have the Gentleman from Virginia, who is such a famous crusader for economy, explain just why he so mysteriously had his bill referred to his own subcommittee instead of the subcommittee which handles Interior bills."

"That's easy," retorted Woodrum; "this is an emergency. We can't afford to lose our grip on the Antarctic. Some other nation might grab it off."

"Well, well, so this is an emergency, is it?" heckled Johnson. "And what if some other country does grab off the Antarctic? What would it do with it that could hurt us? Now, personally, I enjoyed very much those radio programs Byrd put on when he was at the South Pole and unquestionably he is a very brave and able man. But I don't see why taxpayers should shell out $340,000 for another series of broadcasts."

"In his levity," replied Woodrum haughtily, "The Gentleman from Oklahoma is forgetting about scientific considerations. 'Scientific, my eye,' snapped Johnson. 'If you are going to get scientific, what about taking care of needy people right in our own country? It seems to me that the Gentleman from Virginia might do a little scientific thinking along that line, judging from the way he has been knifing relief appropriations.'"

In the opinion of the committee, Johnson won the debate, for it rejected Woodrum's bill by a 3 to 1 vote—causing him to stalk out without waiting for the meeting to adjourn.

SERIAL STORY

BRIDE ON A BUDGET

BY JANET DORAN

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I

AT first, when she saw the powder blue gabardine suit, Iris did not think about Bart Whitaker.

At first, there was just the shop window and the suit with the rich, gleaming strand of mink fur flung carelessly over one shoulder and the long suede gloves on the floor nearby. The suit did something to her. Crystallized a desire that had lain dormant, threading its uneasy way through so many things she had done up to now.

Then Iris remembered Bart. She had to do something about Bart, really. She had tried everything, done everything—still they were about where they were a year ago. Business was bad, Bart was cautious, thrifty and too proud to marry when he felt he couldn't support a wife.

"I'll take it with me, thanks," Iris told the salesgirl. And the little blue book in her purse said, "cash $15, balance due, $65, payments weekly."

Everyone knew Iris Ives, knew she worked in the dean's office, and was the best-dressed girl on the campus, the most popular. Few remembered that she had been the best-dressed girl in 1931, or that she was the belle of Fraternity Row, that year, though. Only Iris, and a tiny calendar in her bedroom, knew that.

By the time she had discovered the tailored linen blouse with the French cuffs, the alligator pumps, and the pinseal purse, the weekly pay checks of Miss Iris Ives were mortgaged for six months to come. But by then, Iris didn't care.

By then, she was sure, Bart would change his mind. The suit would do that. "You ought to model, Miss Ives," the salesgirl had flattered her, when she tried on the suit. Secretly, Iris had always thought she should too. But models led precarious lives, and a private secretary, while not getting anything glamorous in the way of salary, did have a definite sum to depend on each week.

"Do you budget, Miss Ives?" the salesgirl went on. Iris nodded. She honestly believed she did. She honestly believed this was the trick in looking like a debutante, on a private secretary's salary.

At least, she bought her clothes in budget shops, agreed to pay so much a week, and because she was a living, lovely advertisement for the clothes, was able to explain, prettily, to credit managers, why this week's installment was due. She had to go over until next week, because she had to go to the dentist. (Or the doctor, or pay her insurance, of which there was none, only it was a grand alibi, or anything else that occurred to her at the time as suitable explanation for robbing Peter to pacify Paul.)

THAT night, there were many new things in the little two-room apartment where she invited Bart for Saturday suppers. There was the deep lounge chair she bought because Bart liked to read the paper while she prepared the food she had purchased from Mrs. Kemble's home kitchen shop. There was the smoking stand, and both would cost her but a dollar a week, and the set of glazed blue pottery dishes included as premiums with the bargain chair.

There was the food—temptingly old-fashioned home-cooked baked beans from a huge crock Mrs. Kemble cooked each Saturday, and hot crisp rolls, and brown bread. There was the salad Iris assembled from lettuce, halves of canned pears and pineapple rings, and a jar of Mrs. Kremble's homemade salad dressing. There was the steak. And a strawberry shortcake, because it was late May and berries were in from Florida, and a box of prepared shortcake biscuit required only a bit of milk, and a hot oven to transform it into a delectable dessert. But the steak was the main item. Even Bart raved about it. "Good steak feed costs you $1.50 apiece, these times; and you cook one for a fraction of that, Iris. I don't see how you do it."

Then she remembered Bart. She took the suit, so much down, so much a month.

Iris never told him. Bart was a hound for figures and if he knew how much these Saturday suppers cost her, there'd be a riot. Too, he thought she cooked the things herself.

STILL it was worth it. Bart had his own little radio shop, and was coming along fine. And he was by far the most attractive man she had ever known. Though he hadn't reached the point yet wherein he realized the value of dressing to look the part of a successful, rising young business man.

"What for, Iris?" he argued, when she mentioned a sale on men's suits once. "Why should I mortgage my future just to keep up with the Joneses? This suit is good enough for me—had it three years ago, and there's still plenty of good wear left in it. A man has to think of his business these days."

So he hadn't bought the suit. But secretly, Iris speculated on what she could do to improve him. He was really quite handsome. Not quite so tall as some of the glamor boys she had known from Fraternity Row, but well-built.

A sturdy, dependable young man, Bart Whitaker. Ambitious, thrifty. A good catch. And when a girl was sliding into her 26th year, she had to consider such things.

THE evening paper was folded on the smoking stand, and Iris stood behind the new chair, wearing the new slipper satin house coat that zipped to the very floor, and made her waist look not an inch more than 20 inches. Bart flung open the door and grinned. "Hi, honey," he greeted her. Not noticing the new housecoat which had cost $11, and was palest lilac satin with a sash of deep royal purple, noticing only the new lounge chair, so deep and inviting and comfortable looking. And the paper on the smoking stand.

"Hey, what is this, a wifely touch? Or do I notice a little soft comfort offered the tired business man?"

"Good!" Iris chuckled, but

The marriage of Miss Margaret Hert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hert, 316 West Eleventh street, and Mr. Bruce Richey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Richey, of La Monte, was solemnized at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Congregational-Presbyterian church in the presence of members of the congregation, relatives and friends of the families.

Rev. J. M. Evans, a former pastor of the First Congregational church in Sedalia, now of Anthony, Kas., performed the double-ring ceremony, and Rev. John M. Vander Meulen, pastor of the Congregational-Presbyterian church, gave the nuptial prayer.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white sheer floor-length gown, simply designed, and accented with a shirred waistline, loosely shirred short sleeves and with a square neckline. Her gathered veil reached the floor. She carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli.

Miss Hert and her father were preceded down the aisle by the bride's sister, Miss Mary Edna Hert, of Detroit, Mich., the maid of honor, and by Beverly Miller, little daughter of Mrs. Kathryn Hurr Miller, who served as flower girl.

They were met in front of the flower-banked altar by Mr. Richey and his best man, Orin Chappell, who approached the altar from the adjoining pastor's study. The ushers were Jerome Schenk of Clinton, and Phillip Hoffman.

The maid of honor was gowned in pink lace and net, with blue ribbon trim at the ruffled neckline, and at the waist. Her bouquet was of mixed spring flowers. Little Miss Miller wore a floor-length blue organdie dress and carried a basket of mixed flowers.

Preceding the ceremony, a program of wedding music was presented by Miss Mabel DeWitt, organ soloist, and by Harold Lantrill, of Detroit, who sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because," accompanied by Miss DeWitt. Immediately before the processional, the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," Mr. Langrill sang, "Oh! Sweet Mystery of Life."

The sleeves are round and gathered and cool to wear. The skirt has pretty fullness. The neckline, trimmed with edging (to match the sleeves and buttons) is particularly becoming.

Make this apron-frock of gingham, linen or pique, or of sheer cottons like dotted Swiss or dimity for coolness. It's so easy, just six steps in the detailed sew chart accompanying your pattern.

During the ceremony Miss DeWitt played, softly, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," and after the nuptials, the Wedding March by Mendelssohn.

A reception, attended by relatives and close friends, was given at the bride's home after the wedding. Mrs. Hert received in a white printed sheer, with her orchid corsage matching the figures in her dress. Mrs. Richey, the bridegroom's mother, wore a grey and pink silk, and her corsage was of pink gladioli.

The date for the ceremony was selected to concur with the fifty-fifth wedding anniversary of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Ben Hert, of California, Mo., who was here for her granddaughter's marriage.

Following the reception the bridal couple left for a brief wedding trip. Both Mr. and Mrs. Richey are graduates of Smith-Cotton high school, and after her graduation Mrs. Richey attended Warrensburg State Teachers College.

Miss Fanny Routon, daughter of Mrs. Nora Routon of Barnett, Mo., became the bride of Mr. William Reece Dillard, son of Mrs. Grace Dillard of Sedalia, Mo., on Sunday, June 18, at 2:30 p. m. at a very pretty and impressive wedding at the home of the bride's mother in Barnett.

The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. English, pastor of the Fifth Street Methodist church of Sedalia. Before the ceremony Mr. Ralph Salmons of Sedalia sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me." He was accompanied by Mrs. Salmons at the piano. Lohengrin's "Wedding March" was played by her niece, Miss Jeanne Faye Routon, of Barnett.

The home was beautifully decorated with large bouquets of garden flowers.

The bride was beautiful in a floor length gown of white organza and carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Roy Woodworth of Sedan, Kansas, who was beautifully dressed in a gown of peach organza with a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Joseph Dillard of Sedalia.

Miss Routon, now Mrs. Reece Dillard, was graduated from the Versailles high school, attended Central Business college in Sedalia, and has been employed in the office of Drs. W. A. Beckmeyer, J. W. Boger, Cord Bohling, A. L. Waters, and F. M. Fulkerson for the past several years.

She is an attractive brunette with a charming personality and has a host of friends who wish her much happiness.

Mr. Dillard was graduated from Smith-Cotton high school in Sedalia and attended Park college, Parkville, Mo. He later graduated from the University of Missouri as a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration.

Naval Inquiry on Sub Disaster

Question The Four Officers Rescued From Squalus

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 19.—(P)—A full-dress naval board investigating the sinking of the submarine Squalus, which still is the tomb of 26 men, produced testimony today a faulty air induction valve may have allowed tons of water to pour into the vessel.

A dramatic scene marked the opening of the "court," with Lieut. Oliver F. Naquin, commander of the Squalus, both absolving and praising the surviving members of his crew. In turn, the 32 others who were rescued stood silent when asked if anyone cared to make a complaint against Naquin's conduct during the accident and the ensuing hours on the ocean floor.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 19.—(P)—A naval inquiry board today questioned the four officers rescued from the sunken submarine Squalus as a probe got underway into one of the nation's worst submarine disasters.

The hearing was closed at its start, but a half hour after it began the doors of the hearing room were opened, and an officer invited newsmen to enter.

The enlisted men who survived the sinking filed out of the room and returned to their quarters in a naval barracks. Lieutenant Oliver F. Naquin, commander of the Squalus, and the three other surviving officers, remained in the room.

With all the color dictated by naval regulations and traditions, the board, headed by Rear Admiral William T. Tarrant, Commander of the First Naval District at Boston, marched into the hearing room in full dress uniforms, complete with glittering sabers.

The principal witness—in naval terminology the "interested parties"—were the 33 members of the Squalus crew who escaped the fate of their 26 shipmates, and were hauled to the surface in the most dramatic undersea rescue in naval history.

The board's principal duty, a navy officer explained, was to ascertain, if possible, what allowed water to pour into the submerged craft disabling it at the bottom of the ocean 15 miles off Portsmouth in 240 feet of water.

At the time of the sinking, it was blamed by high naval officers on the failure of an air induction valve to close properly during a test dive.

Meanwhile, salvagers reported divers had tunneled 31 feet under the Squalus and there was about 16 feet to go. Once the tunnel through the mud is completed, salvage plans call for placing chains under the stern of the submarine in order to tow her to shallower water before bringing her to the surface.

The 150th dive to the sunken craft was made yesterday by Lieutenant Joseph Morrison.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday June 26, 1939.

Golden Text: Isaiah 49:13. "Sing, O heavens; and be joyful, O earth; and break forth into singing, O mountains; for the Lord hath comforted his people, and will have mercy upon his afflicted."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And he (Jesus) said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. And these signs shall follow them that believe. In my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover" (Mark 16: 15, 17, 18).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Today the healing power of Truth is widely demonstrated as an immortal, eternal Science, instead of a phenomenal exhibition. Its appearing is the coming dawn of the gospel of 'on earth peace, good-will toward men.' Now, as then, signs and wonders are wrought in the metaphysical healing of physical disease—but these signs are only to demonstrate its divine origin,—to attest the reality of the higher mission of the Christ-power to take away the sins of the world" (p. 150).

Murray Told To Stay on City Job, Else Quit

payroll warrants from the city street cleaning department.

Firman Rogers, a patrolman, said he also was forced to split his salary with Reilly and Ned Ferguson Wright retracted his testimony of Saturday.

Never Worked For City
Wright told City Counselor Fred Bellemore today he never had worked for the city and the two checks made out to him were turned over to Reilly at the latter's demand.

Saturday Wright testified he was employed in the street cleaning department on a truck working "out of the barn at Thirty-ninth and Gillham." At that time he stuck to his story although it was pointed out the "barn" was in the park's department jurisdiction.

He added that the story of the barn was rehearsed in Reilly's office before he testified Saturday. Reilly refused to testify.

A prediction "there are going to be some indictments" came from Assistant City Counselor Marcy K. Brown, Jr.

With Mayor Smith back from New York and promising to "fire everyone involved," in payroll padding, a new "charter party" had been organized to push for a recall election.

The "charter party" was formed Saturday night at a mass meeting attended by about 600 persons.

Included in the party's six point program was the promise to press for the recall of lax officials and to elect persons "deemed qualified."

The city court of inquiry which resumed its hearings today heard testimony Saturday that checks for street cleaning labor were made out to some persons who never worked for the city.

Federal Aid Is Commended by Gov. L. C. Stark

Appreciates Help of President To Break Machine

NEW YORK, June 19.—Governor Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri said today he could not have broken the political machine of Democratic Boss Tom Pendergast "without the help of President Roosevelt." Pendergast now is in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas. He was convicted of income tax evasion.

"When I asked the President for help I got it right away," Governor Stark said. "There was never any hesitation on the part of the federal government, and without its aid we could never have done the job."

The governor who came here to address the Advertising Federation of America at a banquet tonight, was reticent about national politics and his own political future in particular.

A report that he might be appointed to a cabinet post brought this response:

"I've already made two announcements that I couldn't accept anything that would take me away from Missouri. I've got a big job to do there. It must be cleaned up. There's lots of mopping up yet on the Pendergast business. Under the new law I must appoint a new board of police commissioners and see that the police stay out of politics in Kansas City."

Not Talk Politics

The governor will go to Washington tomorrow. He said he expected to see the President but not about politics.

Governor Stark said the outlook for crops in Missouri this year was "magnificent," and remarked that "on the whole things in general are better in Missouri than elsewhere."

He said he attributed this to the diversified nature of the state—mining, agriculture and industry. The relief situation also has improved, especially in rural areas. "Did you find that business in Kansas City was seriously affected by the Pendergast machine?" he was asked.

"It definitely was. Business men in Kansas City couldn't call their souls their own. If a man didn't go along he just had to move out. That's all."

Did his attack on the Pendergast machine have a wholesome effect on public psychology?

Definitely, the governor thought. "And Missouri voters are only a cross-section of the United States," he continued. "The American people are more conscious today of freedom and citizenship than they have been for a generation."

"The pendulum is swinging the other way—back to a sound interest in good government. People are more alert and the mass of people act right when they know what is happening. In the past business men and working men and farmers were too much inclined to let others take care of politics. Now they want to see that things are done properly."

In support of this statement, the governor pointed to the passage of a bill in the Missouri legislature for the appointment of a board of police commissioners by the governor.

"When that was introduced it had about one chance in 20 of passing. But the people were aroused and hammered at their representatives in the cities and in the cross-roads sections of the state and made them pass it," he said.

Hammer Slayer Makes Escape

MARYSVILLE, O., June 19.—(P)—Mrs. Velma West, who hammered her husband to death 12 years ago and then went to a bridge party, escaped today from the Ohio reformatory for women here, so she could have "one last good time."

Three other prisoners escaped with the blonde, 33-year-old slayer of Thomas Edvard West, 26, whose fully clothed body, bound hand and foot, was found on a bed in their home near Cleveland, December 7, 1927.

She confessed she killed her husband of two years when he refused to accompany her to the party. She struck him with a hammer four or five times, tied and bound him, washed her hands and jumped into her green roadster and drove to Cleveland for the party. There she sang blues songs, played the piano and dealt cards far into the night.

"Oh my God, don't tell me that," exclaimed Mrs. West's mother, Mrs. Bert Van Woert, when told at Cleveland of the escape.

"What can I do? It can't be. She told me she would never do anything that would hurt me. Are you sure it was Velma?"

Mrs. Van Woert said she visited her daughter at Marysville last Friday, and that she "seemed very blue."

Mrs. West was permitted to plead guilty to a second degree murder charge and was sentenced to from five years to life imprisonment. The Ohio parole board refused last year to give her freedom.

She left a note saying she knew her chances for release were gone and she wanted "one last good time."

The note, addressed to the reformatory superintendent, Mrs. Marguerite Reiley, expressed sorrow for the escape and said if the incident "hurt" the superintendent too much, she would return.

"Next to my life I love Mrs. Reiley best," she wrote. The other fugitives, and at charges on which they were sentenced, were:

Virginia Brawdy, 19, of Akron, incorrigibility; Florence Sheline, of Callipolis, breaking and entering, and Mary Ellen Richards, 23, of Cincinnati, robbery.

The cells of the four women were found empty at the 6 a. m. inspection.

Three Injured In Windstorm

BOWLING GREEN, Mo., June 19.—(P)—A tornadoic wind, blowing out of the east, demolished a brick residence at the edge of town today, injuring Mrs. Mary Smith, about 40, and two other members of her family.

Mrs. Smith, her son, David Eugene Smith, 19, and a nephew, Garret Blair, about 11, of St. Louis, were taken to a hospital at Louisiana, Mo. Their condition was not serious.

The windstorm struck the house about 11 a. m. when the three were eating lunch in the kitchen. They had to be taken out of the wreckage.

A few telephone wires blew down, but no other extensive storm damage was reported.

The couple left after the ceremony for New York to attend the fair and will go from there to the San Francisco fair before returning to El Paso where they will reside.

Propose Loans To Buy Farms

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(P)—The senate agricultural committee approved today a bill under which the federal government could lend or guarantee $350,000 of private loans for the purchase of farms.

The bill, by Senator Lee (D-Okla.), would apply to farm purchase loans a principle similar to the federal housing administration plan.

Aides of Lee said 52 senators, a majority, had signed the measure as co-authors, and that Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the house agriculture committee would press for a similar bill in the house.

The bill would be administered by the Farm Security Administration, which directs the government's existing program of financial assistance for farm tenants desiring to become land owners.

Posse Searches In Wilds For Killer of Two

Ray Olson Suspect In Slaying of Tavern Keepers

HAYWARD, Wis., June 19.—(P)—An army of possemen trained machine gun and rifle fire into a cabin on the west fork of the Chippewa river where Ray Olson, 35, fugitive killer of two volunteer deputies, was trapped, the sheriff's office reported late today.

Olson, an expert marksman, had replenished his food supply before the posse, led by bloodhounds, had forced him to hole up in the shack.

The possemen were deployed around the cabin, firing from cover in heavy underbrush, the sheriff's department said it was informed in a telephone call from Phil Halls, resident in the vicinity.

HAYWARD, Wis., June 19.—(P)—An elusive, quick-triggered slayer of two Hayward tavern keepers who doubled as deputy sheriffs today led a weary army of possemen through the wild, rough country of the Chippewa River flowage after giving a brief glimpse of himself near dusk last night.

District Attorney Jay C. Davis has identified the fugitive as Ray Olson, 35, a man of large stature, with a thin face and broken nose, whose life history is attempting to unravel.

Possemen yesterday used an airplane and bloodhounds without result, searching Cranberry Island in the flowage, where they thought Olson had taken refuge. But as daylight faded, Bill Metcalfe, a resort operator some seven miles from the heart of the search, reported he had seen Olson traveling down a fire lane.

Several hours before that authorities found a suicide note, signed by Olson, in a rowboat on Hay Creek near the fire lane. Since the fugitive was seen later officers believed Olson left the note in an attempt to throw them off the trail.

The note read: "Whoever finds this boat, please return it. I am ending all my troubles forever."

"Ray Olson"

Sheriff George Seehueter dispatched a score of his 200 deputies in automobiles to the fire lane—a slash through the forests to check fires—but they were unable to find traces of the fugitive.

Then a heavy wind and electrical storm forced them to abandon the search until this morning. The area, which looks to reporters for its livelihood, now that the tall timber is gone, has few telephones, and a high wind storm last night put most of them out of commission.

The fugitive twice has escaped the bullets of possemen. The first time Deputies Fred Scott, 46, and Carl Johnson, 37, were shot down as they surprised him in the shack of John Blue Sky, a Chippewa Indian. He picked up the pistols of Scott and Johnson as deputies exhausted their ammunition, and fled. An hour later he shot it out again with two other deputies, with no bullets taking effect. That was Saturday noon. He was not seen again until last night.

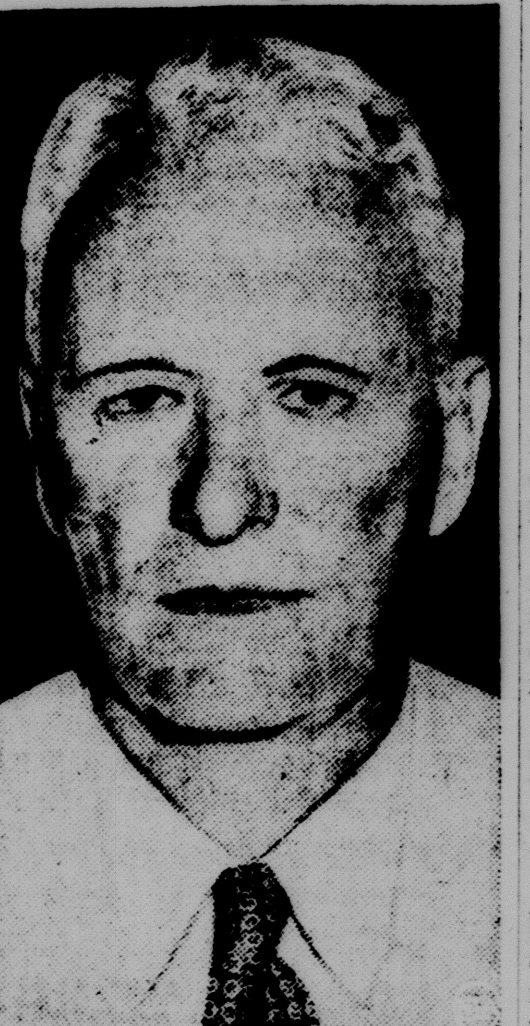

Authorities questioned Olson's wife, detained by a traffic officer who originally stopped Olson to question him about license plates. She was quoted as saying Olson had served two prison terms. She was otherwise uncommunicative.

Ask Distribution of Insurance Funds

kept impounded until another settlement was reached.

The companies contended if the state declined to nullify the settlement and rate order it implied it had not been aggrieved and the funds should go to the companies.

The companies already had agreed to restore the money to the court's custodian.

Claim Illegal Collection
The state, however, contended today that a ruling by Joseph B. Thompson, former insurance superintendent, had denied a requested 16 2-3 percent rate increase in 1930 and that therefore the $9,500,000 involved in the settlement had been illegally collected.

Continuing, the state's petition set out that O'Malley for this reason had no right to dicker.

Originally 137 companies filed a plan with Thompson for a 16 2-3 rate increase. When it was refused they filed suit in federal court, winning an order restraining Thompson and Stratton Shartel, then attorney-general, from hindering them from collecting the higher premiums.

The court, however, also ordered the companies to impound the difference between collections under the new and old rates until the case could be settled. It was this fund that eventually grew to $9,500,000.

"Bribery and Corruption"

This went on from June 1, 1930, until Feb. 1, 1936, when the rate order arising from the O'Malley compromise was made.

The department met the companies' contention it knew nothing about bribery and the statement:

"The before mentioned rate order, stipulation and decrees were (so) induced by bribery and corruption as aforesaid, either with the actual knowledge of the plaintiffs (the companies) or with such knowledge as would have disclosed said facts, or was upon the knowledge of C. R. Street, who was plaintiffs' agent."

The companies admitted they gave money to Street but said they did so "upon the belief that the same would be employed for lawful purposes."

It was an investigation of Streets' estate for taxing purposes that led to the insurance probe. Street was a Chicago lawyer, who was named a trustee of funds to be used for the companies' legal expenses in the compromise.

The rate order, the petition said, was "brought about and induced by paying to said R. Emmet O'Malley a bribe of more than $60,000 x x x and of more than $300,000 to one T. J. Pendergast, a great political leader, and more than $60,000 to one A. L. McCormick, an influential insurance man."

"All this," the petition continued, "was without the knowledge or consent of this court, otherwise said decree would not have been rendered."

Maurice M. Milligan, U. S. District Attorney, charged in his argument when Pendergast pleaded guilty that McCormick, from St. Louis, had had a part in effecting the compromise.

The court sitting today was the same one that issued the restraining orders against Thompson and Shartel and ordered the impoundment. It is composed of Judge Kimbrough Stone of the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals and Judge Albert L. Reeves and Merrill E. Otis of the District Court.

Decline For The Grain Market

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP)—Continuing the wheat market decline under way since the first of the month, prices today sagged more than a cent a bushel at one time to a level about 9 cents under the recent seasonal highs.
Liquidation of July contracts, hedging of new grain and weakness in foreign markets were factors in the trade. Receipts of new wheat are expanding while marketings of old grain also are larger. Weather continued favorable for harvesting and for crops.

The price slump attracted short covering and there were a few crop complaints. This buying caused a partial recovery from the lowest levels in seven weeks but wheat closed 1/4 to 1 1/4 cent lower than Saturday, July 70 1/4 to 70 3/4; September 71 1/4 to 71 3/4. Corn was 1/2 to

Top Advances On Stocks Pared

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—Light buying put further props under the stock market today and, at the best, leading issues got up fractions to around 2 points.
The list encountered a few selling obstacles after noon, however, and top advances were pared in many cases at the close.
Volume was small either way, with transfers for the five hours approximating 350,000 shares, one of the lowest turnovers for a full session in the past year.
The morning push was attributed partly to some lessening of tension over Far Eastern affairs as Prime Minister Chamberlain announced talks were now going on in London and Tokyo looking toward a settlement of the threatening Tientsin dispute.
Securities at London rallied substantially after a poor start and other European centers did better.

Plan For WPA Board To Trim The Criticism

Senate Fire Be Directed On Two Policy Changes

WASHINGTON, June 19.—A desire to share with Republicans the responsibility for administering relief, and thus trim down Republican criticism of WPA operations, helped to put the plan for a three-man WPA board into the house-approved relief bill.

The proposed board, substituting for a single administrator, is one of the three sections of the measure which will be at the center of the coming fight in the senate. Sharp opposition to the board idea already is developing.

The major argument presented against it is that a board is better adapted to policy making, where ideas need to be rubbed against each other, than to an administrative job—such as WPA—demanding quick judgment and prompt action.

Opponents are citing the internal disputes which have raged inside TVA and the bituminous coal commission, and the complaints raised against the labor relations board as examples of the troubles that can beset commissions and boards.

On the other side, a behind-scenes argument that helped put the board plan in the bill was the political view of the problem.

The merits of WPA were argued back and forth in the last campaign. Many Republicans said they were opposed more to the way WPA was being run than to the principle of WPA itself. Democrats, sweaty with responsibility began to mutter:

"If that's the way they feel about it, we'll give them a share in running WPA."

This frame of mind helped produce the suggestion for a bi-partisan three-man board. No amendment was offered in this house to take that section out of the bill.

To Draw Senate Fire

At least two other WPA policy changes made by the house will draw senate fire. One is the formula for apportioning relief funds among the states according to population and the number of jobless. The other is the proposal to establish a monthly wage schedule for relief workers instead of the prevailing wage system.

Senator Adams (D-Colo.), chairman of the subcommittee which handles relief appropriations, and some of his colleagues argue that whatever debt the federal government has to the needy is one to the individual citizens, not to the state.

On that theory, they argue that where a man lives should play no part in the job of seeing that he is taken care of, and that the number of unemployed is no true guide to the number of needy.

As for paying relief workers, these senators favor a wage a little under the prevailing one—far enough to make the WPA worker willing to take a job in private employment when it comes along.

Nausea Usually a Symptom of More Serious Trouble; Relief Not Enough

By DR. MORRIS FISHBAIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Whenever one reads a list of the symptoms of people in association with various diseases, one is likely to be struck with the fact that two of the most common symptoms of all sorts of disease, including diseases of the stomach, are nausea and vomiting. These conditions occur not only in infections and disturbances affecting the nervous system, in diabetes and in kidney disease but in all sorts of conditions generally.

Obviously, therefore, it is not desirable for a doctor to try to treat nausea and vomiting as if they were a disease in themselves, but rather to attempt to handle these conditions merely to bring the patient comfort while determining exactly what is wrong.

If a person vomits, it is probably an indication that the stomach is trying to be empty. Not much is to be gained, therefore, by pouring a lot of things into the stomach. Most doctors are likely to recommend to patients first of all that they do not take any food for at least 24 hours and sustain themselves with warm fluids.

The person who has been vomiting a great deal loses fluid from the body. The loss of fluid may in itself produce serious symptoms. The doctor will endeavor to give this fluid in various ways according to the condition of the patient.

The doctor is not likely to recommend the giving of action of the bowels. Neither is he likely to recommend the giving of narcotic drugs to quiet action of the stomach; the use of such cathartics in order to speed up the drugs will tend to mask symptoms which may tend to indicate the real responsibility for the condition.

Obviously anyone who has been vomiting and who is dizzy may be himself severe harm unless he is in bed and under control. Symptoms of this type place a severe strain on the heart and on the

Raising a Family

Don't Allow Discipline To Take a Vacation

By Olive Roberts Bartin

Yes, children do quarrel more in summer than in winter. And it is not entirely due to the heat, either.

It is because they see more of other children; even more of their own sisters and brothers. Almost any mother will tell us that she finds vacation days harder when it comes to getting the family into line.

The first taste of freedom usually runs to extremes. But let us not forget that children unleashed are no more to be blamed than their elders. It is only human to test life out, once the bans have been lifted.

The greatest contributing cause for quarrelling is the clash of wills. When Johnny and Suzy see more of other youngsters, and contacts are multiplied, naturally the opportunity for setting up will comes with it.

A group of two or three children will play peacefully enough, as a rule. That is, if they are congenial in temperament. Age is not always the criterion for amity, as taste differs in children of all ages.

Mothers Can Control By Cooperation

The larger crowd is bound to have more clashes than the small ones. So, mother, if you are distressed about the daily fussing, it might be advisable to reduce the size of the "cookie squad."

If there are a good many children about, and the community makes it next to impossible to break the play groups into smaller units, then it is a good plan for mothers to get together, talk over the problem of authority, and so on. It would mean that any mother of the group could tell the small visitor on her porch or grounds what to do, without her friends taking offense.

One must never punish a child belonging to a neighbor. But an understanding would help each mother to keep peace and order and give her the privilege of sending some trouble-maker home at once.

Stories in Stamps

AMERICA honored Maj.-Gen. Abner Doubleday as the "Father of Baseball" in the centennial celebration at Cooperstown, N. Y., where the West Point cadet, in 1839, saw his ideas for an improved game first put into play.

However important his contribution to the national game, which has spread over both North and South, it does not constitute his sole claim to fame. He served in the army with distinction and to him belongs the honor of firing the first Union gun in the war between the states.

Doubleday, in command of the artillery at Fort Sumter, was hated by Charleston secessionists as the blackest of the "Black Republicans." Before hostilities began he was the target for much verbal abuse, and, strangely enough, the first cannonball fired from a southern cannon, missed his head by inches.

Doubleday's answer was a shell into the Confederate battery and a second into a group of secessionists watching the bombardment. Then the 19 southern batteries surrounding the fort opened fire. Rescue attempts failed. For a day and a night the defenders of Fort Sumter were subjected to heavy bombardment from four sides. Finally, after 20 hours of battle, the commandant, Maj. Robert Anderson, surrendered.

The victorious populace of Charleston clamored for the head of the "Black Republican," but Doubleday marched out behind Major Anderson with full military honors, and returned to Washington. Doubleday died in 1893.

The U. S. 3-cent baseball stamp, above, purple, enlarged, commemorates the centennial of the game Abner Doubleday originated.

Stamp News

ISSUANCE of a single, 3-cent purple stamp, commemorating the 50th anniversary of the admission to statehood of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Washington, has been authorized by the U. S. Postoffice Department.

Further details as to design, and date and place of first day sale of the stamp, to be released in November, will be announced later.

The 400 covers carried by Francisco Sarabia on his record-breaking speed flight from Mexico City to New York and the overprints issued to commemorate his achievement gain added collectors' value with the tragic death of the "Lindbergh of Mexico" in a recent crash into the Potomac river at Washington, D. C.

The portrait of Cecil Rhodes, founder of Rhodesia, will appear on a stamp for the first time in one of a special series commemorating Southern Rhodesia's Jubilee next year.

An airmail issue of six values and a regular postage set of 16 stamps will be released by the Canal Zone, commemorating the 10th anniversary of airmail service and the 25th anniversary of the opening of the canal. The airmails will be released July 15, the regular set a month later.

Interesting new issues: Bulgaria, sports set of five values for release July 20; French Indo-China, four values honoring San Francisco exposition; Rumania, two values, honoring Eminescu, the writer.

Clicking Merchants Win 8 to 4

Blaine, New Pitcher, Delivers 10 Strike-outs In First Game

The Cash Lumber Co., baseball club of Kansas City, took a "spanking" on the Liberty park diamond Sunday afternoon at the hands of the Sedalia Merchants. The Merchants continued their winning streak by having an 8 to 4 score Sunday afternoon.

Blaine who has joined the Merchants came to the mound Sunday afternoon to relieve Schrick in the fifth inning and finished out the game getting ten strikeouts, allowed three hits, and one walk.

Schrick during his four and one-third innings allowed the visitors six hits and four runs. The Warrensburg southpaw had to be relieved due to a sore arm.

Slayton led the attack getting four safe hits out of five trips at the plate. He drove one ball over the right field fence which went foul by inches and robbed him of a home run. Livengood followed with three hits out of four trips to the plate and also scored four of the eight Merchant run.

The Sedalia Blues took a drubbing Sunday in a double-header with the Sedalia Cubs taking the first game 17 to 7 and the old Oak Grove team winning 12 to 5. The games were played on the Coal Chute diamond.

Carver took over the mound duties for the Cubs with Myers

In the second game Woody Shepard was on the firing line with Doc Snively behind the bat for the Oak Grove club while R. Poynter, did the mound work for the Blues. Smethers and Sullivan did the catching for the Sedalia team.

The Blues are scheduling a game for the Coal Chute diamond for next Sunday.

Revolta and Picard Victors

TOLEDO, O., June 19.—(AP)—America's golfing greats scattered toward their homes from this Lake Erie city today, still talking about the great playoff finish put on by Johnny Revolta and Henry Picard to win the fifth annual $5,200 inverness four-ball matches.

Revolta, after his team had tied over the 126-hole route with Vic Ghezzi and Sam Snead, the defending champions, and Byron Nelson, national open king, playing with Harold (Jug) McSpaden, yesterday cracked a 30-footer into the cup for a birdie on the first hole and the "sudden death" playoff to settle the issue.

The putt gave Johnny and Henry the first prize of $1,050, while the other teams in the playoff split the second and third money, each duo getting $850, in which was included $100 each for the best medal round, both teams tearing nine strokes off par for 62's.

Back of them finished: Denny Shute and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, $850, including $100 for scoring most birdies in tournament, 46; Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen, $550; Harry Cooper and Horton Smith, $450, and Jimmy Thomson and Tommy Armour, and Ed Dudley and Ky Lafoon, tied for seventh, $300 each.

Wooderson Is Confident He Can Still Win

Much Fuss Over Fenske Winning In Mile Run

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—For a little fellow, Sydney Wooderson, the 126-pound Briton who holds the world outdoor mile record, has managed to stir up a great big fuss. So far as track fans and writers are concerned, the outcome of his appearance in the Princeton Invitation Mile Saturday is threatening to wipe out all the international good will created by the recent visit of England's king and queen.

Far from winning that "mile of the century," as he and most British foot-racing fanatics had expected, Sydney came in last while Chuck Fenske, former University of Wisconsin star, took first place in the rather ordinary time of 4:11. That time was mainly the result of the slow pace the Englishman set for the first three quarters. And when the time came for the final dash to the tape, Wooderson was involved in a collision or near-collision with Blaine Rideout, the Texan, lost his stride and never recovered. Glenn Cunningham, who was pocketed during a large part of the race and who also stumbled not far from the finish, came on to take second, some five yards behind Fenske. Archie San Romani was third and Rideout outlasted Wooderson by a step or two for fourth.

As for the accident on the last turn, there's probably a version that trained observers in the press box haven't quite been able to agree, but the headline writers in London were unanimous in the opinion that the Briton was "fouled."

"Wooderson robbed of 'mile of Century' by foul," said one.

"The American seemed to balk Wooderson on the penultimate bend. The Briton threw out his right hand in a gesture of despair and never looked like a winner after Rideout fouled him," reported another writer.

The American writers who saw the race left with the impression the collision hadn't made much difference. Wooderson was "all through" when it happened, they said, and Fenske would have won anyway.

Joe Binks, who covered the meet for a London paper, gave considerable attention to the bump, but added,

"His amazing preparations on the other side, his 4:07.4 mile and his record three-quarters were too much. He left his race in England."

"He sprinted every time Rideout tried to pass him and when the twin did get just a mite ahead approaching the last turn, the thing happened. Wooderson tried to spring once more. He ran blindly. Rideout took the natural curve of the track and Sydney went straight ahead instead of sticking to the curb and ran high into Rideout."

That was Rideout's second-day version, too, "He bumped me, not I him."

Wooderson, less bitter over the "foul" after a night's rest, seemed anxious to let the matter drop and his trainer, A. G. Hill, invited Fenske and Cunningham to compete in a meet in London Early in August.

LONDON, June 19.—(AP)—A clamor for staging a "mile of the Century" on Sydney Wooderson's own track and with his own officials arose in London today as sports writers cooled off somewhat and began to admit Blaine Rideout did not really knock their Sydney down and sit on him at Princeton Saturday.

Wooderson himself, writing in the News Chronicle, said "There was no opening for me to get through. I would not say it was intentional—I do not think it was. "I am certain I could have won if this incident had not happened."

This is bound to help the situation. Americans have not been as unpopular in London as they were late Saturday night since the disturbance at Bunker Hill 163 years before to the day.

Newspapers took up the cry for a return match. Wooderson himself said, "I am very much hoping Chuck Fenske will come over to England for the international meeting x x x August 7 bank holiday, when we could meet again in the mile. I am still confident I can beat him."

Writers who were proclaiming yesterday Wooderson was robbed, now think he was below his usual form. The Mail said, "It sounds like a regrettable business, but the three-quarter mile time of 3:14 indicates that Wooderson was running below himself before he was bumped out."

Along with such comment ran calls for vengeance and a return race. Fenske is the one they want. Most writers experting at a 3,000 mile range believe Glenn Cunningham is washed up.

The Manchester Guardian condemned "scavengers" who are going around "nosing for sensations and charges of raw deal in fragmentary accounts which have so far reached us of the over-publicized mile race at Princeton."

The paper commented: "One wishes that athletes and their friends could be muzzled for the first 24 hours after disappointments of this kind," and concludes:

"What matters a great deal to him (Wooderson) matters very little to the rest of the world and it is intolerable that his first unguarded words and those of his trainer should be caught up, perpetuated and manufactured into causes of ill feeling between us and the people we like and admire . . . It will be deplorable if troublemongers persuade us again that all Americans are cheats and all Britons bad losers."

Jr. Legion Lost To Jeff City 7 to 3

Legion and Clothiers Share Doubleheader Tuesday Night

The Jefferson City Junior Legion team defeated the local Junior Legion club 7 to 3 Sunday in a league game at Jefferson City. The Jeff City boys gathered 8 hits including one triple and one double off the Sedalia hurlers, Smethers and Keck, while the local club made three singles and three doubles off the offerings of McDaniel and Dyck, the Jeff City pitchers.

The inability of the locals to hit in the pinches proved much to their downfall, as they left 10 stranded on the bases. The Jefferson City team jumped out into the lead in the second inning scoring four times on two singles, a double, two errors and a couple of errors in judgment on the part of the Sedalia infield. The locals scored 1 in the third and 2 in the ninth.

The Sedalia outfield showed up well, gathering in and taking care of every thing that came it's way. Especially was the play of Stark, the left fielder outstanding. He had eight putouts and the majority of them were hard running sparkling catches.

Mr. Light has called for a hard workout on the Liberty Park diamond this evening in view of acquainting himself with the boys and improving the hitting and ironing out some of the rough spots in the infield in preparatory to the game on that diamond tomorrow, Tuesday night, when the Legion Club takes on the Shaughnessy Post's team of Kansas City following a preliminary game between the softball teams of Rosenthal's and the Sweet Springs Merchants.

Score by innings of Sunday's game:

Sedalia001	000	002-3	6	4
Jeff City040	110	10x-7	8	2

Batteries: Sedalia: Smethers and Keck; Carson and McMackin. Jeff City: McDaniel, Dyck and Farr.

Today the Sedalia Legion management announced a change in their coach for the team, they being fortunate enough to secure Harry Light to take charge of the club after Fred Yeager relinquished the reins owing to a change in his residence to Clinton, Mo. All Sedalia's fans are well acquainted with Mr. Light and the Legionnaires are confident that he will be able to teach the boys plenty of baseball and have a much improved team on the field when they play their next league game with Columbia at Columbia next Sunday.

Fette Allows 'Cincy' Reds A Single Safety

Single by Craft Robs Boston Ace of Perfect Game

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
Apparently the Detroit Tigers were in dead earnest about rallying the rest of the American League against the New York Yankees.

After tripping the three-times world champions two games out of three at Detroit and winning nine consecutive games against other clubs, the Tigers invaded Yankee Stadium over the weekend and split their first two contests.

Their 8-5 conquest Sunday headlined a day of spectacular accomplishments such as Lou Fette holding the Cincinnati Reds to one hit; Gabby Hartnett hitting a home run to rob Luke Hamlin of a two-hit game, and the St. Louis Cardinals halting the New York Giants' nine-game winning streak.

One of the most appealing angles of Detroit's victory was that it ended a long drought for Schoolboy Rowe. He hadn't won since pitching a four-hitter in the first week of the season. Hank Greenberg hit his 16th home run of the season with one on in the first inning, then doubled with the bases loaded in the fifth.

The victory lifted the Tigers into a virtual three-way tie for third place in the American League as the Boston Red Sox handed the Cleveland Indians a double defeat and the Chicago White Sox split a bargain bill with the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Boston victories, 5-4 and 5-3, ended a four-game losing streak and thrust off at least temporarily threats to the Red Sox's second-place rating. The Red Soxers took advantage of Bob Feller's wildness, an old fault, to win the first game.

The White Sox bunched their blows behind venerable Ted Lyons to win their first game 6-5 but Sam Chapman and Bob Johnson hit homers to give the A's the second session, 9-4.

The St. Louis Browns were rained out at Washington.

Fette's one-hit 5-0 shutout came in the second game at Cincinnati and gave the National League leaders their first defeat in five games. A single by Harry Craft kept the Boston act from a perfect game. The Reds won the first game 12-6, on 16 hits.

Hartnett's homer gave the Chicago Cubs and Dizzy Dean a 1-0 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers in the first game of their doubleheader and the Bruins made it a cleanup with a 9-1 victory in the nightcap.

In stopping the somewhat mysterious gyrations of the Giants, 8 to 4, the Cardinals got 15 hits off four New York pitchers.

Al Sothoron Dies In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, June 19.—Al Sothoron, one of the craftiest of the "freak" delivery pitchers who played a major role in professional baseball during the last quarter of a century, is dead.

The 46-year-old former "spit-baller" who helped the St. Louis Cardinals to their first pennant in 1926, died in a hospital here Saturday night of a complication of diseases after a 3 weeks' illness.

Born at Bradford, O., Sothoron had been making his home in New York. He is survived by his wife.

Sothoron started his major league career with the St. Louis Browns in 1914, and, after a trip back to the minors, was with the club through 1921. He also hurled for Boston and Cleveland in the American League. He ended his major league playing career with the Cardinals in 1926.

Later Sothoron managed Louisville of the American Association and in 1933 coached for the Browns. Shortly afterwards he became manager of the American Association club at Milwaukee where he had several successful years before he was dropped last season.

Telephone Teamwork in Missouri

Some people are surprised to learn that there are 465 telephone companies serving Missouri. The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is the largest, it is true. But there are others—464 of them—which have the important job of providing telephone service in about 780 Missouri towns and cities.

The Southwestern Bell is glad its lines connect with the lines of these other telephone companies, blanketing the state with a vast network of wires—so that boundaries between companies are not barriers to quick, state-wide telephone service.

Through teamwork and friendly co-operation, 465 Missouri telephone companies work together to furnish Missouri with telephone service that is fast, accurate, and dependable.

Long Distance in Missouri is cheap. You can telephone 100 miles for 60 cents (3-minute conversation, day rate, station-to-station).
